Basic Copyright
https://www.socialmediaexaminer.com/copyright-fair-use-and-how-it-works-for-online-images/

1. Do you have to file paperwork to have a copyright?

   No, because copyright does not require the author to file special paperwork

2. What is fair use?

   Fair use is not the same as free use. It allows for limited/reasonable use as long it does not interfere with owners rights

Transformation
https://fairuse.stanford.edu/overview/fair-use/four-factors/

1. What is transformation?

   It is basically how information was used, whether that was to create something new or copied into a work verbatim.

2. What are some examples of transformation and some examples that don't meet transformation?

   Meet:

   Helps embellish topic at hand

   Don't Meet:

   Too small to embellish overall work

website design
https://thomasdigital.com/the-legalities-of-copying-a-website-design/

1. If you like someone else's website design can you copy it? Explain?

If a website is copyrighted and custom-made, you're not allowed to copy its images, text, or other creative elements; however, using web templates is perfectly okay.

2. What are the limits of getting inspiration from the design of another website?

Taking inspiration from several websites is fine, but just don't copy the source code or the elements themselves. You could also ask the owner for permission if you know them.

Fair Use in Class
https://www.cultofpedagogy.com/online-images/

- Name 3 ways to find legal images for the project website you are doing in this class?
- Creation
- Creative Commons
- Purchasing

- How do you find creative commons images? Can you use creative commons images without attribution?
- One can find Creative Common images through free stock photo sites such as StockSnap, Good Free Photos and Flickr. If you use Creative Commons images, there should be a line of attribution and CC recommends using TASL:

    - T - title of an image
    - A - author / artist
    - S - source (or where it is online)
    - L - license for the image
